EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW: Ramona Singer Compares Real Wives Of NY Cast Mates To High School Girls

The Real Housewives of New York star Ramona Singer told us that some of her cast mates forget that they're not in high school anymore, as we caught up with the reality TV beauty Tuesday at the launch of Covet, a lounge on New York's Upper East Side.

"I think I am doing next season, as long as it doesn't get too much crazier. I think, for the show, Sonja [Morgan] is great, I think I'm great, but ... no one gets along with everyone," Singer told us exclusively.

"Jill [Zarin] said on the reunion, 'I'm not going to film with Alex [McCord] on the show, I'm not doing it.' Bethenny [Frankel] says, 'I'm not going to be with this one or that one,'" Singer said, recalling the sophomoric antics of her Park Avenue peers.

Singer said that even though some of her castmates don't realize they aren't in high school any more, she still thinks she'll return for another semester ... err, we mean Season three of the popular Bravo reality show.
