GROWTH SERUMS

These formulas promise to make lashes their lushest

Rx: Latisse

HOW IT WORKS Says dermatologist Dr. Doris Day: "Bimatoprost [originally intended to treat glaucoma] keep hairs in the growth cycle longer, resulting in longer, thicker, darker lashes." Latisse is the only FDA-approved treatment for lash growth.

HOW TO USE IT Apply nightly to upper lash line only. It takes at least eight weeks for results, and must be used continuously to keep working. Side effects may include irritation or darkening of the eyelids. (About $120, by prescription only; latisse.com)

It comes with 60 single-use applicators

OTC: Lashfood

HOW IT WORKS Amino acids and biotin help stimulate the growth of long, healthy lashes.

HOW TO USE IT Apply nightly as above to root of lashes. (You can also use it during the day, under mascara.) Look for results in about four weeks.
